It can be called as follows: * * var exampleMinErr = minErr('example'); * throw exampleMinErr('one', 'This {0} is {1}', foo, bar); * * The above creates an instance of minErr in the example namespace. The * resulting error will have a namespaced error code of example.one. The * resulting error will replace {0} with the value of foo, and {1} with the * value of bar. The object is not restricted in the number of arguments it can * take. * * If fewer arguments are specified than necessary for interpolation, the extra * interpolation markers will be preserved in the final string. * * Since data will be parsed statically during a build step, some restrictions * are applied with respect to how minErr instances are |
